

Key Questions

- Where can Muslims pray?
- How might Hindus show their commitment to God in their homes?
- How might Christians show their commitment to God in their home?
- How might Jews show their commitment to God in their homes?
- Can anywhere be sacred?

Key Facts

- Muslims pray 5 times a day. This is called Salah and it is the second pillar of Islam.
- Salah is performed at set times: dawn, afternoon, at sunset and in the evening.
- Food that Muslims eat is called Halal and food that they should not eat is called Haram.
- Christians can pray anywhere to make them feel closer to God. They may have altars at home or pray in a church.
- Puja is an act of daily worship (in the home) in Hinduism and it uses all of the five senses.
- A Hindu temple is called a Mandir.

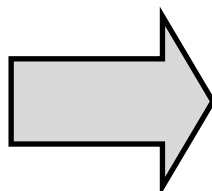

Religion & Worldviews

Year 3

Can anywhere be sacred?

Vocabulary

Word	Definition
Allah	the Arabic word for God.
Crucifix	A representation of Christ on the cross.
Shrine	A holy or sacred place with something important inside it.
kosher	Fit to eat. Jewish people only consume kosher food and drink.
worship	Love and devotion shown to a being or an object considered sacred.
sacred	Shown great respect
Mosque	A Muslim place of worship

What do you want to find out about this picture?

You might ask the following....

- Why is everyone sitting on the floor?